SAFETY BRIEFING

A detailed safety briefing will be conducted before each trip. The rafting team for the trip explains what to do if the raft flips, how to help each other out of the water and what conditions to expect. We always give worst case scenario so that people know what to do expect from the trip and, therefore, have the choice to forego their trip after the safety talk. Once in the raft, you are instructed by your rafting guide as to how to negotiate the rapids and some practice is done before you set off. You are also briefed before each rapid on how the raft is expected to react.

SAFETY AND PRECAUTION

- We always ensure all the participants wear a life jacket
- We do not overload the raft.
- We do not go rafting after/ during a heavy rain.
- The guides are qualified and well train
- We are well know local weather conditions. We make sure the water and wheater conditions are safe.

Because water conducts electricity, it is wise to stop swimming, boating, or any activities on the water as soon as you see or hear a lightning.
